Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

Gladys Maria Hindmarch was born in Ladysmith, British Columbia, on January 1, 1940. She lived on Vancouver Island until 1957, when she moved to Vancouver to attend the University of British Columbia. There she was a student of Warren Tallman's and met fellow writers Fred Wah, Pauline Butling, Lionel Kearns, George Bowering, Frank Davey, Daphne Marlatt, and Jamie Reid, among others, and became involved with the "TISH" poetry newsletter. She graduated from the University of British Columbia with a BA in 1962.

After graduating from UBC, she worked as a cook and messgirl for the Northland Navigation Company on the cargo ships "Tahsis Prince," "Haida Prince," "Northern Prince," and "Skeena Prince." Her experiences working aboard these ships inspired a book that she began writing in 1967, then called "The Boat Stories" or "The Boat Book," eventually published in 1988 under the title "The Watery Part of the World." The same year she began work on this book, she married Cliff Andstein, then a student of economics. In 1969, they moved to Madison, Wisconsin, while Andstein worked on his MA degree and Hindmarch worked on "The Boat Book" with the help of a grant from the Canada Council for the Arts. The couple returned in Vancouver in 1970 and founded the York Street Commune, a communal house located at 3504 York Avenue in Vancouver's Kitsilano neighbourhood, along with Lanny Beckman, Brian DeBeck, and Stan Persky. Her first book, "Sketches," was also published in 1970. That same year, Hindmarch miscarried a child, and the following year gave birth to a son, Lars Andstein; these two events formed the basis for her book "A Birth Account," written primarily in 1971 and published in 1976. She separated from her husband Cliff in 1971, and served as Lars' primary caregiver from then on. Hindmarch published works of short prose throughout the 1960s, 70s, and 80s, in periodicals such as "The Capilano Review," "Writing" (later known as "The Georgia Straight Writing Supplement"), "Periodics," "Iron," and "NMFG" (No Money from the Government). From 1972 to 1974, she taught English at Vancouver Community College, and in 1974 began teaching at Capilano College (later named Capilano University). Her third book, "The Peter Stories," was published by Coach House Press in 1976. Until the late 1990s she wrote under the name Gladys Hindmarch, but has since then preferred to use the name Maria Hindmarch.

Custodial history

Records were in the custody of their creator, Gladys Maria Hindmarch, until their acquisition by Simon Fraser University Library's Special Collections and Rare Books in 2001.

Scope and content

Fonds consists of records created or accumulated by Gladys Maria Hindmarch, primarily through her activities as a writer. Records document the writing and editing of her books and works of short prose, her other editorial work, and her personal and professional relationships with friends and other writers. Records include correspondence, drafts, manuscripts, notes, journals, published articles and reviews, and research records.

Fonds has been arranged into the following five series: Correspondence (1959-1998), Writings and related records ([ca. 1959]-1994), Notebooks (1962-[ca. 1981]), Works of others ([ca. 1959]-1997), and Personal records ([ca. 1962]-1985).

Series MSC-34-0-2: Writings and related records

Date: 1960-1994 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

File consists of records related to the writing and editorial activities of Gladys Maria Hindmarch. The majority of the records document work on Hindmarch's 1988 book "The Watery Part of the World," with a smaller number of records relating to her other books and her works of short prose. Series also includes records relating to her editorial work for a proposed women's magazine. Records include drafts, manuscripts, notes, correspondence, and research records.

Series has been divided into the following two sub-series: "The watery part of the world records" (1964-1988) and "General writings and related records" (1960-1991).

Subseries MSC-34-0-2-1: The watery part of the world records

Date: [ca. 1962]-1988 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Series consists of records relating to the writing, editing, and publication of Gladys Maria Hindmarch's 1988 book "The Watery Part of the World," based on her experiences working aboard cargo ships in the early 1960s. Hindmarch worked on the book throughout the 1960s, 70s, and 80s, and worked extensively on it from 1985 to 1986, the year she took a sabbatical from her teaching position at Capilano College. It was during this time that the manuscript was first read by Denise Bukowski, Hindmarch's literary agent at Pacific Publishing Services. Working titles for the book project have included "The Boat Stories," "The Boat Book," and "Nootka Odyssey," and these titles are reflected in the file names. Record types in this series include drafts, manuscripts, page proofs, notes, research records, and correspondence.

Physical description: .42 m of textual records

Access points:

- Textual record (documentary form)

Related material:

Numerous "boat stories" have been published as works of short prose in various periodicals, including both those that appear in the published version of "The Watery Part of the World" and those which were ultimately cut from the final manuscript. See the acknowledgements section of the published book for a full list of these publications.
