These archival copies have been generated from web press releases maintained and originally written by SFU Communications and Marketing. Where possible, an effort has been made to preserve the public comments left on the website as well as any included photos or other images. All textual content should be faithful to the original press releases; contact numbers have been removed but they have not otherwise been altered in any way. However, this collection of documents spans multiple generations of web authoring software and not all formatting will be exact.

Former Pakistan Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto has died from injuries suffered after a reported suicide bomb attack. The opposition leader had been at a rally in support of her party's campaign for a January 8 general election. SFU historian Andre Gerolymatos, who specializes in military and diplomatic strategy and follows issues in region, is available for comment. Doug McArthur, professor of public policy, calls it "a sad day." He has been to the region and neighboring countries such as Afghanistan, where he has been working with fragile democracies to create new political structures recognizing freedom and autonomy. McArthur is also available for comment.
