University Awards for the 1966 Spring Semester

Simon Fraser University announced today the names of 22 students who had been given University Awards on the basis of their contribution to the University life during the 1966 Spring semester.

These awards are made on the basis of excellence and outstanding performance in areas such as fine arts, student affairs and community life; coupled with a good academic record.

The President's University Award Committee was greatly pleased with the depth and variety shown in contributions made via the theatre, music, student government, publications and other areas.

These contributions have been steadily growing as students initiate and develop such activities on the campus of Simon Fraser University.

The Committee feels that such activities have a very special place in University life and merit the recognition of the entire University and community. The Committee hopes these awards will encourage both individuals and groups to continue their contributions to the life and growth of Simon Fraser University.
